

Certificate in Project Management

Overview

The Certificate in Project Management has been developed by McGill University's School of Continuing Studies.

This comprehensive online course is fully aligned with A Guide to Project Management Body of Knowledge (PMBOK® Guide), 6th edition and consists of 14 online modules. Case studies, quizzes, live webinars led by McGill's project management experts – as well as practical tips and advice provided by experienced project management professionals – complement the theory and concepts explained in the course. Downloadable templates allow you to apply your learning immediately on the job.

Your virtual mentors – McGill instructors who are seasoned project management professionals – share real-life cases and in-the-field experience through mentor video clips.

As part of this course you'll have access to the PMP® practice exam for three months.

On successful completion of the course, you will receive an attestation from McGill's School of Continuing Studies indicating that you have earned 35 Contact Hours of formal project management education required to be eligible to apply to take Project Management Professional (PMP)® or Certified Associate in Project Management (CAPM)® certification exams.
